Expert on International Sports Corruption, Gambling Joins University of New Haven's Financial Investigations Program

JULY 25, 2018

Declan Hill, D.Phil., Associate Professor

The University of New Haven announced that Declan Hill, one of the world's leading experts on sports corruption, has joined the University's Financial Investigations Program.

Effective Aug. 1, Hill will join the financial investigations program in national security at the University of New Haven's School of Business.

An award-winning journalist, Hill is the author of two books on sports corruption, "The Insider's Guide to Sports Corruption" and "The Insider's Guide to Gambling."

"Declan Hill brings a unique perspective to the University, given his international contacts and experience in the field," said Dr. Mario Gaboury, dean of the Henry C. Lee College of Criminal Justice and Forensic Science.

He will help expand the reach of the already robust financial investigations department and provide students with a unique opportunity to learn from one of the world's leading experts in the field.

Mario Gaboury, dean of the Henry C. Lee College of Criminal Justice and Forensic Science, said Hill's expertise will be a valuable asset to the program.

Patrick Malloy, senior lecturer and director of the M.S. in Investigations program, said Hill's expertise will be a valuable asset to the program.

Hill is studying the aftermath of the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision to allow single game sports betting in more states.

"There has never been a more important time to study U.S. sports integrity," Hill says. "S
